Rising as an Entrepreneur

Mr. Goyal began his career in 2009, when the world was drowning in the challenges of the global recession. After completing his PGDM, with thousands of dreams in his eyes, he stepped into his professional career, but the path was not so easy. He started his career with the Frankfinn Institute of Air Hostess Training. During this, he realized that challenges often bring opportunities along with them. He saw opportunities in challenges and continued to work with enthusiasm and passion. After a short stint at Frank Finn, he joined a startup institution, Excel Business Academy, where he got three promotions within a year. He left the job the day he was made director of marketing. He had come to know the purpose of his life. He felt that rather than wasting time on random jobs, he should join a cause where he could truly help many people and transform thousands of lives. During the next four years, Mr. Goyal set up eight successful ventures in cities such as Bangalore, Delhi, and Pune. Building a company is not an easy task. Along with hard work, dedication, and being multifaceted, it is also important to have passion and zeal. Mr. Goyal adapted himself to these situations in such a way that each of his ventures set a benchmark for success. With the valuation of 100 Cr. His clear vision and unique understanding of business not only took the business forward but also gave a unique work template to other business leaders as well.

An Avid Learner & Reader

Mr. Goyal later became a part of the Leadership and GMP programme at IIM Bangalore. He always believes that continuous learning should be an essential quality of a business leader. A leader is always a good reader, and this fits perfectly with Mr. Goyal. It is because of their passion for reading and learning that they always find themselves among the best booksellers in the world. He has so far read thousands of books on topics such as leadership, entrepreneurship, business innovation, public speaking, and life skills.
